CARRIBOU DISTRICT.

The Corinne Reporter, of the 10th, ontains the following accounts of a new gold district:

From Dr. Cass, a keen observer, who has just returned from Carribou District, we have gleaned the following interesting information: The information is of double interest to our readers, not simply because Carribou is a wealth-producing district, but that Corinne is its outlet, and the precious dust, as fast as uncarthed, is sent here, where the major part is converted into goods and necessaries. The district is situated in Idaho, about 140 miles distant. It is made up of four principal gulches which all head in Bald Mountain, a prominent peak which looms up 13,000 feet above the sea level. Streams formed by the melting snow cleave the mountain in four parts, and furnish the motive power for excavating the precious metal. The fall of these streams is so great that hydraulic mining at any place is practicable. The gravel which lies from fifteen to twenty feet in depth, on the bed rock, all contains more or less gold. Where hydraulics are used the average yield per day is $20 to the man, and where simply the shovel and sluice box are used $3 to $5 per day to the man is the aggregate production. At present about 100 men are operating in the district, though we deem it safe to say that five thousand men could find remunerative employment there for at least five years to come. As one approaches the mountain the bed rock naturally lies deeper to come. As one approaches the moun-tain the bed rock naturally lies deeper from the surface, though at the bar it is not too far down to be worked to advan-tage. The only gold found in the coun-try is in these streams, and as the sum-nit is approached the gold seems to increase, not only in quantity but rich-ness. With these facts in view it does not require an oversative output. not require an over-acute comprehension to see that Bald Mountain is the grand to see that Bald Mountain is the grand fountain head which supplies Snake River and McCoy. Iowa, Bilk, Last Chauce and the other guiches which form its tributaries. The large nuggets found at the source are naturally disintegrated by the powerful force which carried them down to lower streams, which readily accounts for the finer dust found in the washings on Snake River. The readily accounts for the finer dust found in the washings on Snake River. The natural advantages of the district are many. In each of the four gulches mentioned there is a sufficient head of water for extensive hydraulic mining, which is sweet, cold and limpid, and admirably calculated for domestic use. There is an abundance of timber near, and the access is most easy—so much so that a # an abundance of timber near, and the access is most easy—so much so that a light pleasure buggy is all that is necessary to make the trip from here there. Keenan City, a small town, is situated near the mines, and eight miles distant is another village where the miner can obtain the every-day necessaries. It seems that the boys at Carribou considered they had a good thing and aimed to keep it as quiet as possible, yet it is but due to the general public that a district with such natural advantages, and of so much intrinsic wealth, should be known to them. An estimate of the fineness of the gold dust can be formed when it is known that the $5,000 worth purchased by the Doctor went 9.60. WEBSTFR AND JENNY LIND.

Ex-Gov, Foote's "Reminiscences of the Past." When the dinner was over, Webster, in his most bland and courteous manner, approaced Stuart and myself, and invited us to accompany him in his carriage back to Washington, suggesting that he would be pleased if we would go with him also to the opera, where Jenny Lind was to regale, for the last time, a Washington undersomething the company of the last time, a Washington with her charment masters. audience with her charming minstrelsy. There was, of course, no refusing such an invitation; so we hurried forward with glorious anticipations of enjoyment. On arriving at the door of the opera-house, bster entered in his grandest manner, and slowly passed down the central aisle of the building. It chanced that Jenny Lind was then on the platform, and was about to commence singing our inspiring national authem, "The Star-spangled Banner." So soon as Webster's approach was perceived, the assemblage spontaneously broke forth with tempestuous applause, evidently recognizing it as a remarkable coincidence that the renowned defender of the Constitution hould be some in come in the sare meaning the sa should happen to come in the very mo-ment that the sacred emblem of the nation's liberty and union was on the very eve of being rapturously apostrophized in song. So soon as the audience settled down into quietude, the inspiring tones of Jenny Lind's marvelous voice were heard. Never before or since have I have I been so overwhelmingly sensible as on that occasion I was, of the com-mingled power of music and sentiment. The whole concourse really seemed to be electrified. Webster was so transported with delight that he actually seemed to become almost unconscious of the presence of others, and hummed very distinctly in unison with the vary-ing tones of the songstress. All the enthusiasm of his soul seemed to have been kindled to flame, all his patri-otic pride to have been awakened, and his whole moral nature appeared to have been "touched and inspired" by the scraphic sounds to which he was an en-raptured listHer. When the song had been concluded, Webster, as if impelled by a sense of official duty to offer, in the name of the great various which he felt name of the great nation which he felt himself entitled in some degree to repre-sent on this occasion, the formal tribute of its respect, rose from his seat, and of its respect, rose from his scat, and stepping forward to a central position between the audience and the platform on which Jenny Lind was standing, he made her one of the most honoring and majestic bows I ever beheld. The amiable and accomplished recipient of an homage as unexpected as it must have been gratifying, manifested something of a graceful and blushing embarrassment, but courtesied, notwithstanding, most profoundly in response, upon which the assembled multitude gave vent to their delight in most vociferous applause. A assembled multitude gave vent to their delight in most vociferous applause. A second bow was administered, with precisely similar accompaniments. A third bow was tendered, when the charming "Swedish Nightingale," as she was called, incontinently took wing and became invisible to our fond admiring eyes, perchance forever.

SENATOR CARPENTER CONDEMNED. - The SENATOR CLEVENTER CONDEMNED.—The Republican Convention of Whsconsin refused to nominate Eaton, who is Carpenter's best friend, for Lieutenant-Governor. They also passed resolutions denouncing the back-pay grab and the Credit Mobilier swindle. Carpenter thus stands condemned by the Republicans of his own State, as he was the champion of both these measures, and has defended them both since the adjournment of Congress.

NEVADA STATE PREMS MINING SURVEY.—The Belcher Mining Company, says the Gold Hill News, have employed engineer I. E. James, to make a complete underground survey of its mine. The principal object of the survey is to determine the boundary line between the Belcher and Crown Point concerning which there has been some dispute. About two weeks time will be required to complete the survey.

We learn, says the Carson Appeal, that the quartz croppings discovered in the Pine Nut range are attracting great crowds of prospectors and others, and that the original discoverers have bonded their claim to General John B. Winters and associates for $50,000. Rumor has it that this is the long looked for Comstock extension. Hope it may prove to be.

The Virginia Chronicle says Billy Killingly, who has been to Cornucopia, has a good opinion of the camp, and thinks there is "money in it," in the course of time. Billy remained in the camp several weeks, examined the developments as far as made, theoremely seed the course of the same of the camp several weeks, examined the developments as far as made, thoroughly, and as he is fa-miliar with the geology and metallurgy of most of the mining camps of Eastern Nevada, his opinion of Cornucopia is of value. He proposes returning in a short

In the Second District Court at Carson, on Thursday, the jury in the case of Longabaugh vs. The Virginia & Trackee Railroad Company, returned a verdict egainst the Railroad Company for $5,281.71 damages and interest from the date when plaintiff's wood was burned near the Mexican mill by sparks from a locomotive. A stay of execution for ten days was granted.

There in the Nevada Gift Concert, says the Virginia Chronicle, are selling rapidly in the East since the time was fixed certain for the drawing, and already large orders have been received from Eastern cities, particularly New York, Louisville, Cincinnati and Philadelphia, for an additional supply.

THE Virginia Chronicle hears of a man who went to Cornucopia, jumped a rich mine, was bought off for $2,000 and started East. At Toano the three-card monte sharp jumped him and gobbled every cent of his ill-gotten gains.

Last Wednesday Governor Bradley went down from his ranch to Elko and took the train bound west.
